

Rosewood food drive collects thousands of donations

A food drive in north Scarborough's Rosewood neighbourhood collected nearly 3,000 non-perishable items door-to-door last month, a "fantastic" result organizers say shows the commitment of its volunteers.

"The positive responses from our community go well beyond anything we anticipated," Courtney Fisher, president of the sponsoring Rosewood Taxpayers' Association, said this week.

EXPANDED AREA

The effort was renamed the Scarborough Rosewood Food Drive because, in its second year, it expanded outside Rosewood to cover three groups of condominium townhouses on Brimwood Boulevard.

The items – including 30 pounds of candy gathered after Halloween – have been delivered to an area food bank at the Dorset Park Community Hub.

Throughout the month, student volunteers delivered flyers Wednesdays to homes volunteers would visit that Saturday or Sunday.

The students wear badges, are supervised by adults and do not go to homes with "no solicitation" signs.

The association reported the number of volunteers helping out with the food drive involved has doubled from last year, and that it is already seeking responsible students and reliable adults to join the drive in 2014.

Interested volunteers should send a message to rosewood-taxpayers@hotmail.com or call 647-385-1256.
